Introduction

Apolitical, unbiased, and nonpartisan, Electoral Literacy Clubs are being established around the nation to encourage voting literacy among Indian citizens of all ages through captivating and fascinating activities and practical experience. To reach the new voters (those between the ages of 18 and 21) who are pursuing graduation, Electoral Literacy Clubs are specifically being established in universities around India. All of the students from each semester will be members of the club. The specifics of the ELC's setup, participants, convener, location, mode of operation, and activities will all be covered in detail in the following sections.

Motto:

The motto of the Electoral Literacy Club is to educate students about their rights as voters and the electoral process, including voter registration and voting, by including them in engaging activities and practical experiences. Learning and pleasure collide in ELCs. Students are encouraged to think critically and pose questions through games and activities that are meant to excite and motivate them. The Election Commission of India hopes to encourage young people and future voters to participate in elections by means of ELC.

Objectives:

- To use practical experience to teach the targeted people about voter registration, the electoral process, and related topics.
- To promote familiarisation with EVM and VVPAT and to educate voters about the reliability of EVM and the integrity of the election process through the use of EVMs
- To support the intended audience in exercising their right to vote in a self-assured, relaxed, and morally upright manner and in understanding the importance of voting
- To maximize the ability of ELC members to spread electoral literacy throughout communities
- To make it easier for its eligible members who haven't registered to vote
- To foster an environment where voting is a civic duty, to ensure that every vote is cast with integrity and knowledge, and to uphold the voting rights of all voters.
